$64,000 Question, The Theme

Before you on the screen of this television set is our video rehearsal stage, Ardsley High School. Through the programs of Station WAHS you will become acquainted with the perpetual buzz of activities in which the students participate as they attempt to "Beat the Clock." "The Shower of Stars" illustrates the primary roles played by the Seniors, presiding at club meetings and organizing the Subscription Campaign. Our principals produced and the teachers directed the different shows—from the drama at the issuing of report cards to the thrills of basketball games. Our show reached its "Climax!" with the viewing of the two Seniors graduating—on our concluding page. The ARDSLEYAN thanks our sponsors, the advisers, and the patrons, who made it possible for us to televise our school. "Here's Looking at Us!"

The Big Surprise--The class of 1957 dedicates . . .

Mr. Michael Jackman

. . . this Ardsleyan to Mr. Jackman.

To you, Mr. Jackman, our coach and real friend, we the Junior class dedicate the 1956 ARDSLEYAN.

This familiar figure, dressed in T-shirt and blue slacks, could usually be found helping a group of boys in basketball techniques or observing a tense ping-pong game. Through his tireless efforts and high spirits, he coached the Varsity Basketball team to its victorious standing of second place in the Western Westchester League, and thus they qualified for the Class C Tournament. During the warm, spring days of the baseball season, "Coach," a powerful lefty himself, used his previous experience to further the ability of the team.

To show our appreciation for the outstanding way in which you have inspired us, we the class of 1957 dedicate this yearbook to you.

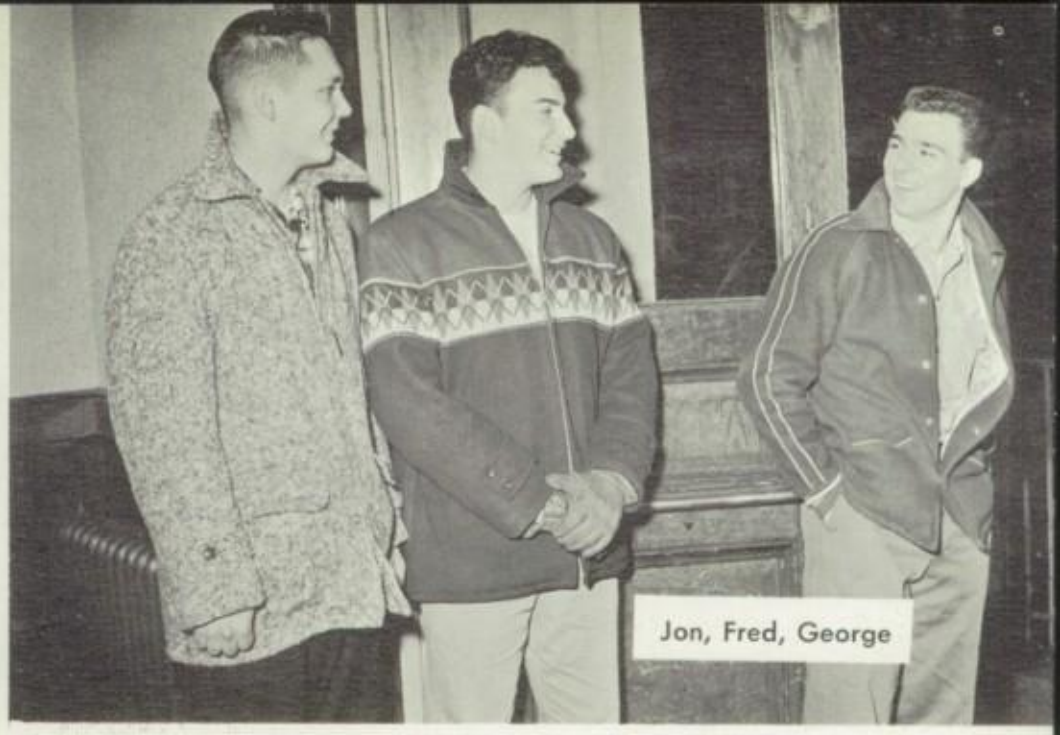
SHOWER OF STARS



It's a Great Life . . .

Channel 1

If we were to turn the dial of our television set to Channel 1, we would view a program with enthusiastic performers. The script concerns the class of '56 as Freshmen, entering Ardsley High School for the first time. We would laugh with them as they were thrown under the showers in G. A. A. and be frightened with them as they entered the assembly hall to be peered at by the rest of the high school.

Channel 2

As we switch from Channel 1 to Channel 2, we view the same class as Sophomores. They are no longer timid and shy but eager and energetic as they await their trip to Biology Camp at Croton, where they lived together, cooked together, and took long hikes together. After returning home, the Sophomores busied themselves selling candy at the basketball games in order to earn money for their Washington trip.

. . . This Senior Year

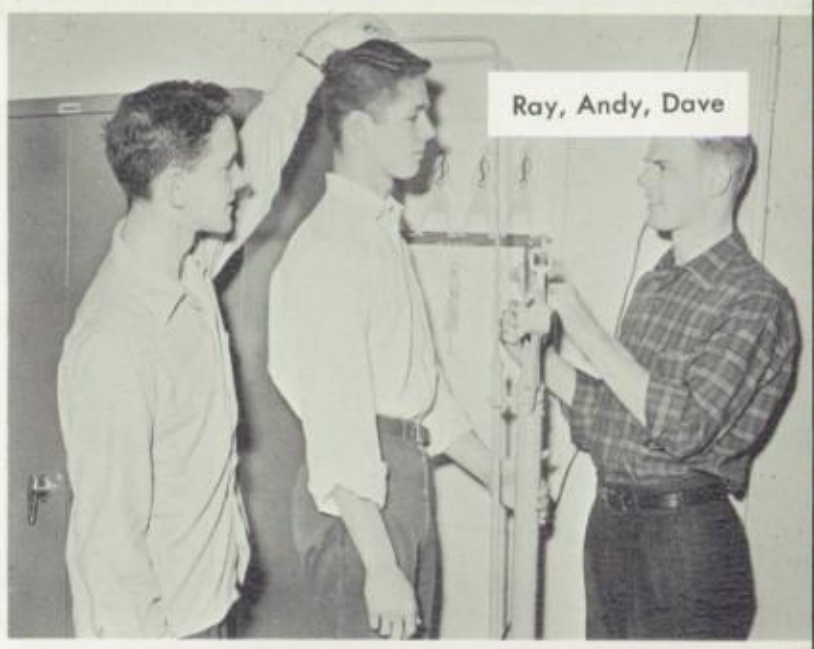
Channel 3

As Juniors, the class of '56 dedicated most of their spare time to creating the 1955 ARDSLEYAN, which received a first rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. The television viewer is able to watch the editors painstakingly planning original layouts, writing sprightly copy, selling more ads and yearbooks than ever, and discussing their symbolic endsheet and their unique plaid taffeta cover.



Ray, Andy, Dave

Channel 4

This is the final and long-awaited program for the class of '56. We see them conducting a subscription campaign, giving the senior play, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," going to Washington, D. C., for a joyous and exciting week, and finally marching down the aisle to receive their diplomas. Thus they ended their high school career, but a new, exciting program was expected in the future.

The picture on our 1956 television set would never be complete without "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," starring two light-hearted characters, Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough, who dominated the SENIOR PLAY, presented on March 23 and 24.

The Roaring Twenties had its most hilarious moments as the girls, determined to be mature and sophisticated on their first trip to Europe, turned the ship into a two-ring circus. At one time, Emily, fearful of a shipwreck, placed cookies in two of the lifeboats because she didn't know which one would be hers.

Just before the boat landed, Cornelia felt sick; the medical students' verdict was measles. But by applying makeup skillfully and putting on an uproarious act during medical inspection, she managed to get through.

We leave Emily and Cornelia in Paris, as they try to convince a French actor that he should give Cornelia acting lessons.

"I got it! A whole page ad! $50!" a jubilant JUNIOR cried as he ran into room 211. Similar outbursts of enthusiasm were common as the ARDSLEYAN slowly took shape. But a hushed atmosphere existed at the Friday meetings as the layout and theme were discussed. Finally, that day in June arrived when the class distributed the books.

"Can you solve this problem in intermediate algebra?" How often is this question asked by a puzzled SOPHOMORE! But this and other scholastic dilemmas were forgotten at their P.X., which supplied the famished rooters at basketball games with various kinds of candy. As we walked down the hall that first day in high school, we felt so mature. But this sensation vanished when we FRESHMEN, marching into assembly, were accompanied by the laughter and clapping of the upperclassmen. Soon we were accepted as we began our studies in science, English, and social studies.

OMNIBUS

Suddenly it was there, our Junior year, and the responsibilities and thrills of editing the ARDSLEYAN were upon us. What would we have done without Miss Pelda, our wonderful adviser, who was a continual source of inspiration.

We had such fun at the Friday meetings with Gretel, Margaret, and Louise pouring over the layout and Eddie and Dave puzzling over budget and circulation. Frank was out getting pictorial ads, while Lynne busily typed in the "inner sanctum," and Gitta tried to locate stray pictures. Suddenly in the midst of copy, Cindy screamed, "My clarinet—it's locked in the music closet." All the while Roberta was patiently waiting for a decision on the theme so she might begin her art, and Jack dashed here and there wherever needed.

Despite the fear of a tissue paper cover, our masterpiece, hard cover, special features, artistic endsheet and all, finally went to press.

Everyone was working silently when suddenly the door of room 211 burst open, and Charles Copeland, our ARDSLEYAN special photographer, strode in exclaiming, "Where's Frank? I need more film." Charlie's wonderful pictures illustrated our commercials. Glenn Koors and Jeffrey Berlind were often found giving an overwhelming sales talk to some perspective patron. Lynne's private secretary, Evelyn Kreymborg, beat out a continuous staccato of copy on her typewriter. Chester Slaybaugh provided a welcome means of transportation at times when our editors were not available. We thank each one of these people for their support, and we especially thank our parents and Miss Pelda, Mr. Felter, Mr. Koors, Mr. Hartman, and Miss Patteson, who played such important parts in making this book successful.

Youth Wants to Know

The ideal organization for learning the hows, whos, wheres, and whats of college and university life is the COLLEGE CLUB. At the meetings, which were held every two weeks in some member's home, alumni from different campuses told about location, tuition-costs, and courses of their alma-maters. This was followed by inquiries and a discussion. President J. Raicht, Vice-President C. McKeough, Secretary-Treasurer B. Somsky, and Mr. P. Koors, adviser.

COLLEGE CLUB—Seated: J. Schmidt, J. Raicht, B. Somsky, N. Solomon, K. Kamens. Standing: N. Cauvet, S. Knapp, D. Purdy, A. DeSola, C. Davis, J. Canning, Mr. P. Koors, P. Pagnoni, W. LeCount, A. Wickersham, G. Barbieri.

"Honor" is the watchword of the thirteen students who comprise the THIRD DEGREE, the executive body of the Honor Society. To keep alive the memory of Robert Arone, this group added two books about medicine to the library. In remembrance of Jack Hackett, an aluminum-etched plaque was dedicated in the Memorial Park. Because of changes in school scheduling, the Honor Society requirements were revised. President N. Cauvet, Vice-President D. Clarke, Secretary M. Mestern, Treasurer D. Purdy, Corresponding Secretary G. Barbieri, and Miss H. Robbie, adviser.

People's Choice

After several weekly sessions in YEARBOOK CLUB a Sophomore becomes acquainted with double-spread layouts, bleeds, montages, glossies, and budget. Exchanging the Ardsleyan with other schools not only makes possible comparison of our yearbook with schools of similar size but sometimes inspires new ideas. The group also learns the qualifications of the Ardsleyan Board of Editors in the Junior year. M. Cassens is president; M. Baker, secretary, and Miss D. Pelda, adviser.

How wonderful the high school halls seemed without the congestion at the change of classes! Thanks to the STUDENT COUNCIL a solution was found by supplying monitors. On the school bulletin board one could follow the progress of the "Twirp" dance, basketball canteens, and, of course, the Senior prom, and other Student Council-sponsored activities. A. Kalmykow is president; M. Christiano, vice-president; P. Carlyle, secretary; D. Mooney, treasurer, and Mr. F. Kluge, adviser.

T.V. Playhouse

A silence of anticipation enveloped the audience in assembly as the curtain rose to reveal the DRAMATIC CLUB production of two one-act plays. A new constitution was adopted during one meeting, and in May a dance and entertainment were given for the enjoyment of the entire high school. N. Solomon is president; C. Meyer, vice-president; J. Raicht, secretary; R. Hughes, treasurer, and Mrs. E. Koenig, adviser.

"¿Habla usted español?" was the key to enter SPANISH CLUB, which brought into Ardsley the mysterious and haunting atmosphere of Spain and that of the gay Latin American countries. A trip to the Hispanic Society gave them the pleasure of becoming better acquainted with Spanish artists. At the Mexican restaurant many burned tongues made the experience of hot tobasco sauce memorable. L. Egy is president; B. Gardiner, secretary, and Miss H. Robbie, adviser.

Person to Person

A strange silence prevailed as the high school students, leaning against their lockers, were engrossed in a colorful publication called the "Salt 'n' Pepper." This extraordinary interest was proof of the constant toil of the members of the JOURNALISM CLUB who, assisted by Mr. P. Koors, publish the periodical. Honorary President B. Somsky, President and Editor N. Noschese, Assistant Editors M. J. Flanigan and E. Calhoun, Secretary M. Jetter, and Treasurer W. Klores.

Leroy Anderson's "Typewriter" would be a very appropriate theme song for the future secretaries of Ardsley High, who meet twice a month in COMMERCIAL CLUB. To extend their knowledge of up-to date office procedures, they visited several business concerns, including the "Reader's Digest," and invited guest speakers and Ardsley alumnae to their meetings. C. McKeough is president; C. Santore, vice-president; D. Anglin, secretary; B. Somsky, treasurer; E. Kreymborg, reporter, and Miss C. Patteson, adviser.

The shelves of temperas and inks made an appropriate background for the future Cezannes and Picassos of the ART CLUB. A lump of cold dank clay thrown on a table soon became a gracefully-curved vase or a crouching cat. A striking abstraction or the peaceful blue of a languid pond were revealed by skillful free brush strokes over the whiteness of the paper. R. Pellegrini is executive secretary, and Mr. T. Martland, adviser.

The goal of all Ardsley High School musicians is to become a member of the CLEF CLUB. As the governing organization of the music department, it plans the concerts and music policies. Mr. Vincent is adviser.

The seven members of the JUNIOR CLEF CLUB form a committee which schedules programs for the grade assembly and plans the activities of the band and chorus. Miss A. Haymond is the sponsor.

"Haven't you finished eating yet?" was the usual, joking comment as VARSITY CHOIR members trooped up from the lunchroom for their noon-time meeting. All attention was focused on the BAND as its members, clad in gleaming new uniforms, proudly marched in review. Even Sousa would have been astonished at the skill by which his compositions were interpreted. The March 4 concert with selections from "Carmen" further illustrated the proficiency of the band. In state competition they earned a commendable rating in Grade 3. W. LeCount is president; S. Hassell, secretary, and Miss Haymond is adviser.

At noon hour on Tuesdays and Thursdays such gay rhythms as "Begin the Beguine" and "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" resounded through the halls of Ardsley High. A stranger might have asked, "Who are those professionals?" but we all know that it was the ORCHESTRA. All-State and All-County orchestras claim the advanced players. N. Cauvet is president; S. Hassell, vice-president, and Mr. Vincent is adviser.

On a warm September day when the leaves began to show their brilliance, a giggling wet Freshman, closely resembling someone who had been caught in a heavy fall downpour, emerged from school; she was followed by others of similar description. But this strange sight is only G. A. A. initiation. As the volleyball season finished in November, new shouts of "Make that basket!" echoed in the gym. Through the winter, members of the Girls' Athletic Association exchanged anticipatory cries as the ball was passed quickly from hand to hand until the points were made. When spring melted away the snows, the "swoosh" of badminton rackets replaced basketball. May and June witnessed the homeruns and strike-outs of the baseball games. Miss G. Roll is adviser.

Any noontime before a basketball game one could find members of VARSITY CLUB soliciting funds to support the basketball programs. The Intramural All-Star Faculty game, which they sponsored on March 22, left everyone breathless and amused. Officers are President C. Slaybaugh and Vice-President W. Townsend. Coach Jackman is adviser.

A smart green sweater, accented with white trim and bearing the nickname of the owner, designates a member of SPORTS CLUB, the executive body of the Girls' Athletic Association. To stimulate better games they sold candy and soda to the girls participating in the sports. In the winter they helped the boys in issuing basketball programs. The president is Grace Barbieri and secretary, Nancy Cauvet.

Spotlight on Champions—

The 1956 VARSITY BASKETBALL team earned one of the finest records of any in Ardsley's history. Placing second in the Western Westchester League, they achieved fourteen wins and only two losses. Ken McComb was chosen the most valuable player and an All-Star member, David Mooney as the most improved player, and Chet Slaybaugh as an All-Star team contestant. Mr. M. Jackman is coach.

Sports Preview

Hail to the champions of the Junior League in basketball, who made the magnificent record of fourteen wins and only two losses! With the help of Mr. Einhorn, the coach, the JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL team worked toward the goal of gaining experience and training necessary for members of the Varsity team. L. Egy is captain; G. Koors and B. Smith are managers.

Good team spirit and the expert guidance of Mr. Felter were the sparks that ignited the successful JUNIOR VARSITY BASEBALL team. Almost every clear, spring afternoon the team would practice at Woodlands Park, where they gained the skills of "America's favorite sport." Mr. C. Felter is coach, and Wayne Bolten is captain.

Baseball Show of Shows

A cry of victory resounded across the field as a member of Ardsley's VARSITY BASEBALL team, dressed in one of the striking new uniforms, slammed a homerun. On April 20 a thrilling game at Children's Village began the 1956 season. Although a suitable field wasn't available for practice, high spirit and good sportsmanship prevailed at all times. Let's take a trip . . .

At almost any time of the school day, as well as after school and on week-ends, some group in the Ardsley Public School System is being introduced to OUTDOOR EDUCATION ACTIVITIES AND SCHOOL CAMPING. Under the direction of the supervising principal, Mr. Arthur W. Silliman, a pioneer in this field, "life in the rough" is experienced as a co-curricular activity.

The primary step is the nature walk in kindergarten. The energetic seventh graders conquer Mt. Greylock, while historically-minded eighth graders make their annual pilgrimage to Valley Forge. The Outdoor Club, founded in 1936, prevails from that time on. High school students go on long journeys to the Blue Ridge and the Catskill Mountains.

Trips to Virginia always include a visit to the Hopewell Village and Washington's Crossing. Ardsley students are welcome to spend the night in the hand-hewn peg-framed barn at the Old Tall Gate Farm owned by Mr. John Teller, an alumnus.

Education with an adventure challenge does much more than train students in good camping skills. It provides experience in human relations and adjustment to group decisions and cooperative living.

Under the eternal surveillance of the bordering mountains, a narrow peninsula, called Croton Point, projects into the Hudson River. Through the cooperation of the Westchester County Recreation Commission, Ardsley biology students annually trek to Camp Senasqua on this site, and there they anticipate the adventure of the snipe hunt and the appearance of the Croton creeper from behind their piles of sleeping bags and text-books.

Supervised by Assistant Principal Charles W. Horend, a program of studies in botany and geology has more meaning and is better implemented here than in a classroom with books. To many, the new experience of living in cabins, while they participate in food preparation and house-keeping duties, is combined with the well-practiced art of slapping mosquitoes and the hilarity of being initiated into the White Elephant Club.

Originally a demonstration project in the Second Supervisory District, BIOLOGY CAMP, with the full support of the office of the district superintendent and the heads of appropriate bureaus of the State Education Department, has proved to be a sound educational procedure. The 1955-56 program was the sixth year of high school camp projects in Ardsley.

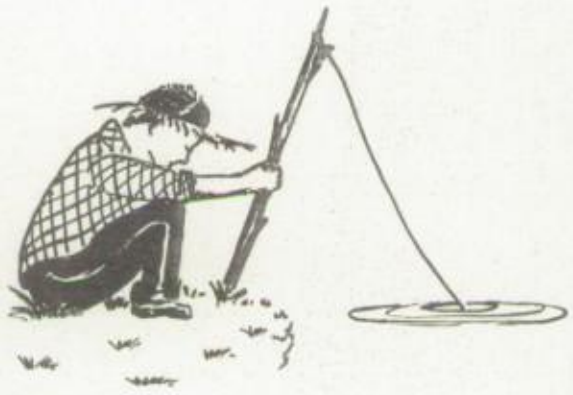
. . . with the Outdoor Adventure Club



The crackle of the fire slowly dwindled, a bobcat screeched, and the stars twinkled in a darkened sky as sleepy members of the OUTDOOR CLUB dreamed about the day's adventures. During their trips to the Blue Ridge Mountains, Valley Forge, and the Catskill State Park, they learned about outdoor education by planning the routes, building camp sites, and sharing work details and meals. President is F. Arone; vice-president, G. Koors; secretary-treasurer, B. Smith. Principal A. W. Silliman and Mr. T. Figlia are advisers.

Mr. Everett Einhorn, Teacher—While walking down the aisle on graduation night, we thought of this wonderful year. To GRADE 8E, October meant one thing—our educational adventure at Croton Camp. Weekly class meetings taught us the value of organization, and roller skating parties provided us with an enjoyable social activity. Class officers are Pres. J. Riccii, Vice-Pres. A. Izzulo, Sec. M. . . . our adventures . . .

Mrs. Barbara J. Junge, Teacher–GRADE 7J's New York State travel agency display illustrated our instruction in social studies. The colorful "Santa's Workshop" was our next project. Staging "Which Witch Is Which" and "Inside a Kid's Head" revealed that we were a dramatically-minded group. In arithmetic we enjoyed plotting our progress in spelling by means of line graphs. Our trip with Mr. Silliman to Albany, New York, was the highlight of our wonderful year. Class officers are Pres. J. Stern, Vice-Pres. W. Papovitch, Sec. J. Osterberg, Treas. J. Prestholdt. Mrs. Esther Allison and Mrs. Lois L. Hoy, Teachers—The many new toys, farm animals, rhythms, and singing games made the time in KINDERGARTEN-A so pleasant. Another great attraction was the easel where we painted pictures. The class mothers are Mrs. A. Reid, Mrs. L. Tenenbaum, Mrs. M. Riegert, and Mrs. E. Singer.

Our sand table in KINDERGARTEN-H has portrayed an Indian village, a snow scene, and a farm. In the spring we went on nature walks and even visited the firehouse and police station. Class mothers are Mrs. R. Joose and Mrs. H. Hazen.

. . . and its songs, stories,

Miss Nancy Bloxsom, Teacher—KINDERGARTEN-B gained an appreciation of books and of music by learning to read, dramatizing stories, listening to records, and memorizing simple songs. We displayed our artistic ability by decorating the bulletin board. While studying about transportation, we made scrapbooks, illustrating different types of planes and trains; we also constructed models of them. Class mothers are Mrs. R. Mathieson, Mrs. F. Ramin, Mrs. P. Burke, and Mrs. G. Kerbel.

Mrs. Marjorie Ridings, Teacher—KINDERGARTEN-R learned to work and to play agreeably with each other in organized groups. Our gold fish, turtle, and guinea pig, named Cecil, taught us the love and care of animals. The scientists in our class showed us their collections of shells and rocks. By June we had learned to print and write many numbers. Class mothers are Mrs. R. Merrington, Mrs. G. Green, Mrs. R. Turner, Mrs. W. Wittens.

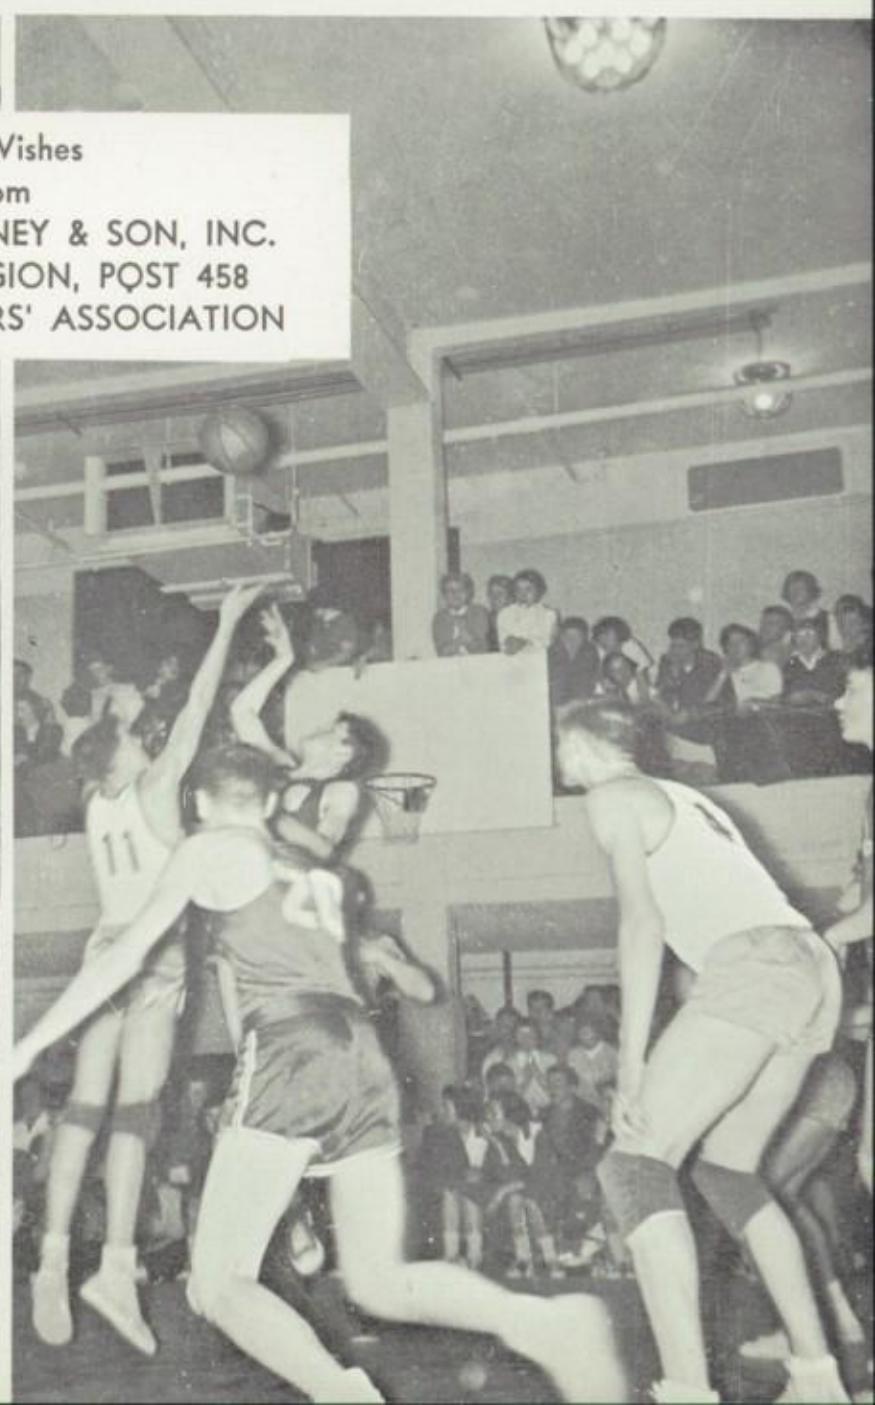
PARENT TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION



On Sunday visit the ARDSLEY METHODIST CHURCH, Ashford Avenue, Ardsley. At 9:45 there is church school for ages four years and older. The morning worship and junior church are held at 11:00 while there is a church school nursery and play activity group. Senior Youth Fellowship 7:00.

"Be prepared!" This is a very appropriate motto for such a wonderful organization as the GIRL SCOUTS. Open-air camping and cooking, as these girls are doing, teach the skills of self-reliance and outdoor living. Being a Girl Scout is well worthwhile.

As you drive along the Saw Mill River Road in Ardsley, you will pass "Westchester's most gracious supper club," THE WATER WHEEL INN. In the large dining-hall, luncheon, dinner, and supper are served, with nightly dancing an added attraction. For reservations for your private parties call DO 3-4135.

Having a party? Visit RICCIO'S MARKET for the finest in fresh or frozen foods, as you see Charlie doing. One can always be sure of friendly and courteous service at 474 Ashford Avenue. DO 3-0365. Try one of Riccio's tasty wedges.

Enjoy a pleasant afternoon's ride at the V&W RIDING ACADEMY, Sprain Road, Scarsdale. For the inexperienced horseman, such as the youngsters riding the ponies, expert instruction may be obtained for a nominal fee. Riding is a pleasure for all ages on such gentle but spirited horses.

Eddie is trying to help Linda decide among the many delicious brands of ice cream, only one of the variety of excellent foods, meats, and groceries which are sold at LOUIS' SUPER MARKET. Why don't you plan to do your shopping at 711 Saw Mill River Road in Ardsley. Call DO 3-1120 or 3-1121. Use the free parking area or have your groceries delivered.

Whether you're interested in purchasing a basketball such as Frank is displaying or winning a trophy like the one Jack is holding, R. E. TeCARR, located at 285 North Broadway, North Tarrytown, N. Y., will supply you with all sports equipment including badminton sets and golf clubs. ME 1-3741.

Over the County Trust Bank in Ardsley one may find a complete assortment of fine jewelry at the ARDSLEY JEWELER. If one's watch is broken, it will soon be skillfully repaired and electronically checked by this reliable store. A visit here will prove worthwhile.

Frank will learn much from the library of the R. S. A. CORPORATION as he and Mr. Anthony pour over the books located there. These excellent research laboratories are located at 690 Saw Mill River Road in Ardsley, New York. DO 3-1818, 3-2493.

"Known wherever there are schools and colleges," the L. G. BALFOUR COMPANY carries an excellent supply of class rings, such as the seniors are wearing in the picture, commencement invitations, and club insignias. Also for a wide choice of medals and trophies contact them at 521 Fifth Avenue, N. Y. C.

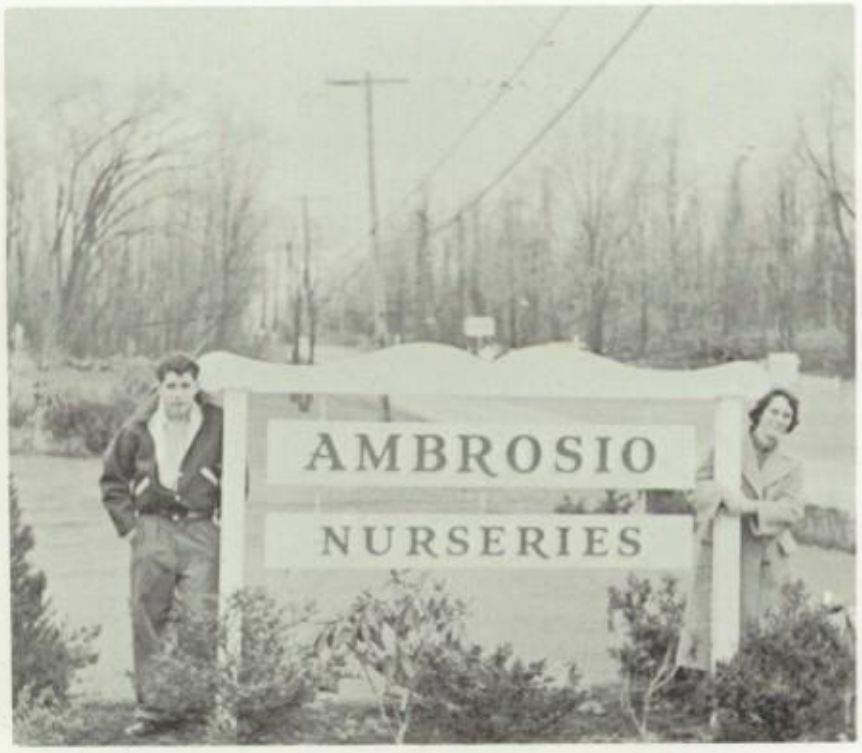
A refreshing soda or sundae is a treat at the ARDSLEY CHOCOLATERIA, INC., as you can see by the cheerful smiles of Grace, Angela, Jay, and Judy. The juke box provides entertainment with the latest hit tunes. Why not sample some delicious Reid's ice cream.

As Chet and Nancy are rapidly discovering, a great variety of well-built and inexpensive shoes may be found at the ARDSLEY BOOTERY, INC., situated in the Village Green Center, Ardsley. This complete assortment includes Dr. Posner's scientific shoes. DO 3-4770.

DO 3-1954 is the lucky number that can pull you out of a snow bank or fix a flat tire. WESTCHESTER GARAGE in Ardsley Square supplies long distance and local towing. Mr. Nannariello and his competent staff also do automotive service and collision work.

After a date at the movies or a drive through the hills of scenic Westchester, stop for a delicious hamburger and malted milk at the CHARCOAL SNACK BAR, conveniently located on Central Avenue, Scarsdale, N. Y. Dave, Jeff, Linda, Gitta, and Frank are enjoying the cheerful atmosphere there.

Why not have your car washed where everyone does at THE SAW MILL AUTO LAUNDRY on Saw Mill River Road. For a dazzling simoniz or a periodic washing, call DO 3-7783. Your car is sure to look like new.



Wouldn't a colorful dogwood or fragrant magnolia fill that vacant place in your garden? THE AMBROSIO NURSERIES, at 611 West Hartsdale Avenue, White Plains, N. Y., has available varieties of shrubs and flowers that would flatter any garden as Jeff and Barbara have discovered. WH 9-1177.

On the corner of Wildey and Cortlandt Streets in Tarrytown is CARTOON'S FURNITURE STORE, a firm that has "Furniture that pleases" as Pat, Jack, and Nancy are finding out. Another branch of this reliable and efficient business is located at 25 Spring Street, Ossining.

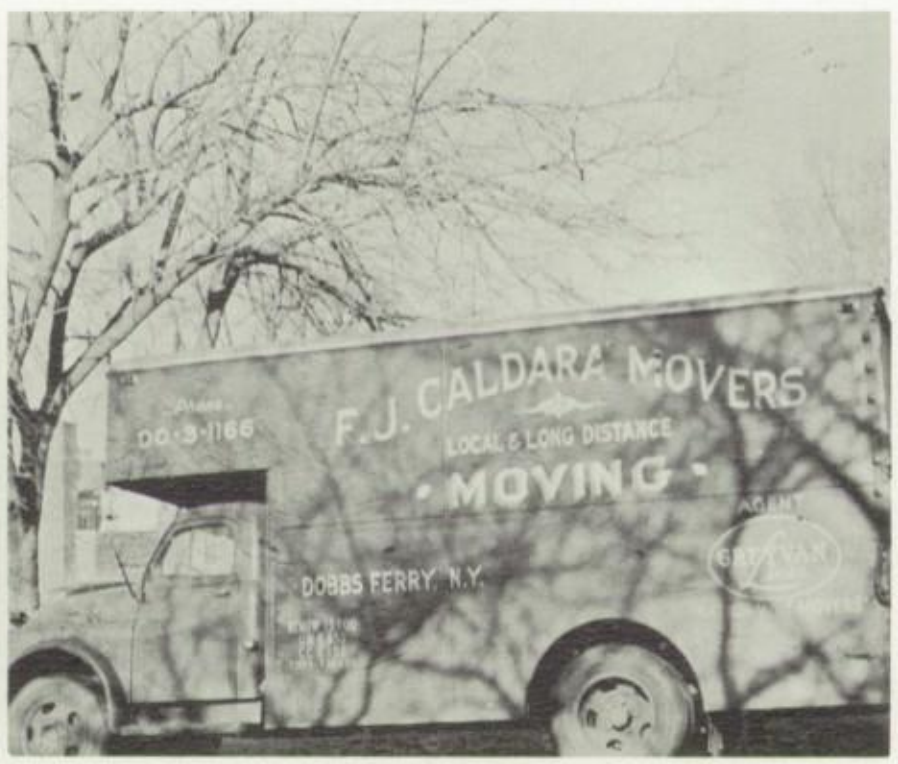
When you are thinking of selling your present home and buying a new home of distinction, contact OLIVIA G. SEELER, located at 501 Ashford Avenue in Ardsley. Frank is learning that this fully-staffed office specializes in ARDSLEY - FOR - BETTER - LIVING INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE. Call DO 3-3600.

For shopping convenience in a suburban atmosphere, try dealing at the ARDSLEY VILLAGE GREEN CENTER for a variety of women's and men's apparel stores, shoe stores, and children's stores. A large parking area is located in the rear of the Green.

The SENIORS were in the midst of planning the final details of the Washington trip when this group picture was taken in the library. Jayne Schmidt is president of the class; Dave Purdy, vice-president; Angela Pasquini, secretary; Grace Barbieri, treasurer, and Kathy Kamens, class reporter.

For a quiet and comfortable place where your visiting friends and relatives can spend the night or even a week, try the ARDSLEY ACRES MOTEL COURT. These modern accommodations are located on the Saw Mill River Road and Parkway in Ardsley, only 28 minutes from Times Square. DO 3-2700.

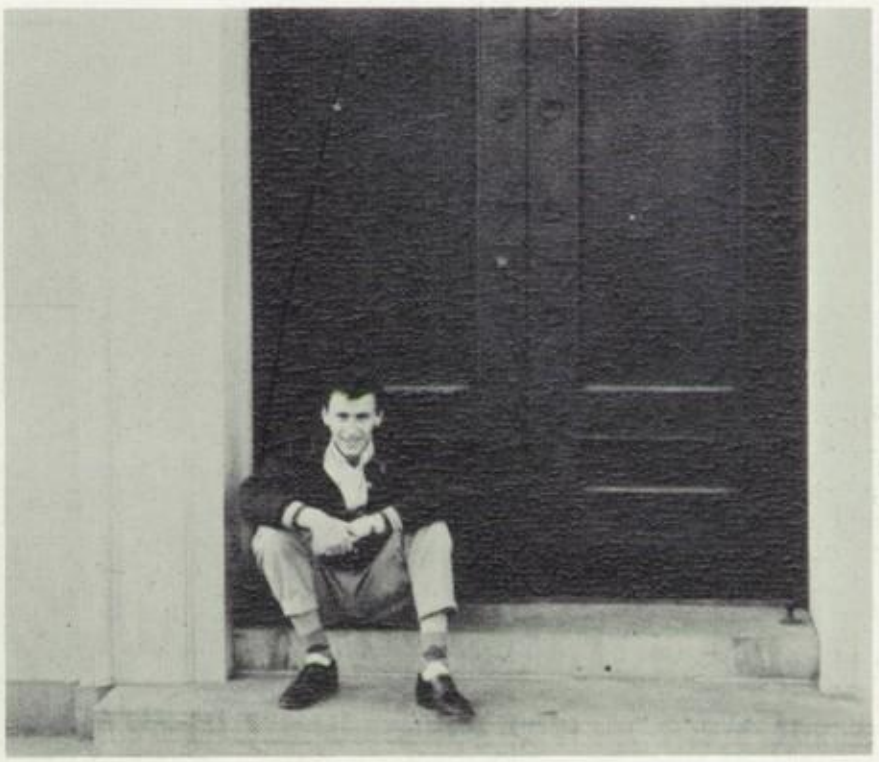
Are you, like Pat, looking for a special variety of shrubbery, flowers, plants, or holiday wreaths and trees? Among their wide selection, PULVER BROTHERS will probably have what you are looking for. If you are in Hastings, a visit to the greenhouse will be worthwhile. Otherwise call HA 5-1079.

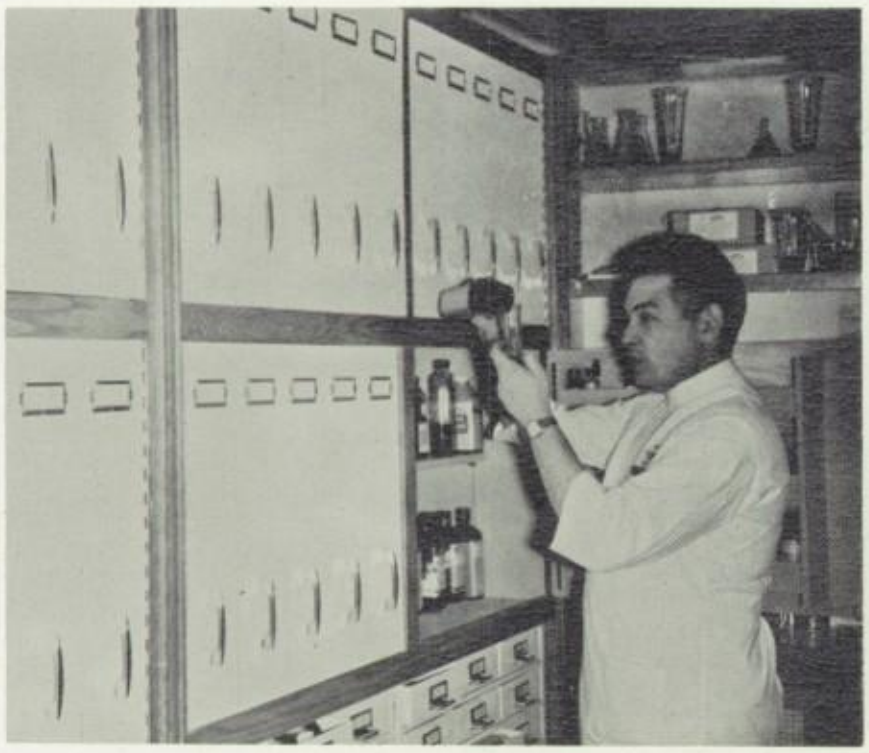


For the best in local and long distance moving facilities available, call DO 3-1166. Located at 124 Main Street, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., the F. J. CALDARA MOVERS, agents for the Greyvan Lines, nation-wide movers, will transport your possessions quickly and safely.

Dave and Nancy aren't really bank robbers; they're just trying to get a peek at the savings of the many people who deal at the HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION. It is centrally located at 560 Warburton Avenue, Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Soon the GREENBURGH SAVINGS BANK in Dobbs Ferry will open for the day, and Charlie can add to his savings account or even rent a safe deposit box. This bank belongs to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation with total assets of $6,000,000. For December's busy shopping days, a Christmas Club account is perfect.





For all your drug needs why not try the new LIGGETT REXALL dealer at 717 Saw Mill River Road, Ardsley, N. Y. Mr. H. Altman, B. S., and Mr. T. Levine, B. S., will be glad to serve you or give you prompt, free delivery. DO 3-2003.

Jeff and Barbara are admiring the fine points of the Lincoln and Mercury automobiles in the showroom of ROLLY MOTORS, Ardsley Road and Central Avenue, Scarsdale, New York.

E. ROBISON, INC., has a complete oil heating service for your home. Oil burners, boilers, hot water heaters, and tanks are sold and installed. The contracts include service and parts and 24 hour service on any make burner. Automatic fuel oil deliveries are an added convenience.

The sales and service store is located in Hartsdale and the fuel oil storage plant at Hastings-on-Hudson. E. Robison, Inc., prides itself on its dependability as exemplified in the motto, "The house that service built."
